Minister's Minute

As I write this, my sister and my niece are still trying to make their way home from Sarah's wedding. If you watch the weather you probably know that the east coast received in excess of 24 inches of snow, bringing transpiration to a stand-still.

My family did finally get a flight out of Indy to Washington DC, but became stuck there. They spent the night at a motel, only to find the re-scheduled flight canceled. So they rented a car and were driving to New Jersey.

Travel this time of year is always an iffy affair. A high anxiety level is to be expected. Perhaps you haven't thought about it, but the Christmas story is one that revolves around much traveling.

Joseph and Mary had to make their way to Bethlehem and then later on to Egypt. Shepherds left their fields to spread the news of the birth in the nearest towns. Wise-men journeyed miles, perhaps perched between the swaying humps of camels. And God only knows the mileage the angels incurred between heaven and earth.

In the end, my family will make it home with more travel stories to tell. Perhaps Joseph and Mary shared their experiences with others long ago too.

At the heart of all this travel is the providence, provision and protection of God. We don't travel alone. Christmas came just exactly as God planned with or without the cooperation of donkeys, camels, and perhaps tired feet.

Regardless where your holiday travels may lead, you can go confidently, God is with you. So relax and enjoy the journey. Happy Holidays.

Thank You!

"To the angel that cleaned the communion after second service for Charles and I. Thank You and Merry Christmas!"
